

Matrics with shaky results to get a lifeline - Source:Business Day

SCHOOL leavers who have no chance of getting into universities or technical and vocational education and training colleges, will soon be handed a qualifications lifeline. The government will this year pilot seven community colleges to provide a career path for school leavers whose matric marks are too low to meet entrance requirements at universities and training colleges.

Read more

OUR VIEWPOINT: School-to-university link is broken - Source:News24

IT is alarming to read that more than half of those students who drop out of tertiary institutions do so in their first years. Quoting the results of research done by the Council of Higher Education (CHE) over five years, Andre van Zyl, director of the Academic Development Centre at the University of Johannesburg

Read more

SA scientists create cheap computers for schools - Source:fin24tech

A team of students and professors at the University of the Witwatersrand who are searching for the secrets of the universe, are also hoping to fundamentally change the educational system of the country with locally produced low-cost computers for pupils. Professors and students with the university's High Energy Physics group

Read more

UKZN investigation fails to reveal statue culprits - Source:The SouthAfrica

A University of KwaZulu-Natal investigation has failed to reveal the culprits who defaced a statue of King George V. The university confirmed on Tuesday that the culprits who defaced the statue, situated at UKZN's Howard College campus, had not been identified.

Read more